biography

Introducing Katie Mavis, an emerging artist from the lush forests of northern British Columbia, Canada. Drawing inspiration from renowned artists such as Taylor Swift, Hozier, and Lorde, Mavis is a consummate and clever lyricist who captivates listeners with her evocative storytelling. Her sound expertly melds dreamy folk acoustics, effervescent pop hooks, and a profound command of the English language. Harmonizing the simple with the smart, a style described as "thought-pop," Katie has an approachable yet insightful perspective.

Mavis's introspective lyrics explore themes of critical self-reflection, yearning, and a deep love for the natural world and its phenomena. Her music showcases her unique ability to fuse depth with relatability. Since 2019, she has been earning professional writing credentials, establishing herself as a vital contributor to various co-writing projects and artist collaborations.

Katie's highly anticipated debut single, "lover body mother," was released on November 8, 2024. In this feisty track, she delivers an intimate exploration of the female experience, confronting the emotional fallout of having boundaries violated after striving to fit the "chill girl" ideal. With biting lines such as:

"there's no such thing as playing house then playing friends"

"I'm getting dizzy playing cool just to feel some control,"

"I've been a lover, a body, a mother. Stoic to strangle the suffer"

Mavis proves herself a sharp penman of honesty and wit.
